Mary Ray

designer clothing maker teacher

Mary Ray is a designer, clothing maker, and teacher as well as a contributing editor for Threads magazine. She has a long and varied career in the sewing industry and is a designer of award-winning wearable art that has been featured in shows and galleries around the country.

Spend the day with us as Mary teaches how clothing can be art, have distinctive details, and fit at the same time. We will learn how to use fabric and style details to enhance the figure. She will show us how quilted garments don't have to be stiff and puffy. They can range from shaped jackets with darts, tucks or princess seams to supple pants and skirts. Learn the secrets to creating quilted garments that fit and flatter; how to choose patterns, fabric, and batting; how to machine quilt easily; how to include detail and embellishment; and how to finish seams and edges.

Pick up any recent issue of Threads and you will find something that Mary Ray has created. Look at the cute white blouse in the March 2009 issue. Check out her website at www.maryraydesigns.com.

Mark your calendars for September 19th. Send in your registration today! You won't want to miss this exciting and creative event. Any questions, email Marilyn at neelsneedles@insightbb.com.
